Our school won "School of the Year in 2013" and is now seeking some highly skilled and enthusiastic Irish teachers an opportunity to work with them in 2019.

The school is based in Westminster, London and following a £28 million investment is now one of the most sought after schools to work in. The school have strong links with the Royal Society of Medicine and the school is proud to offer the internationally acclaimed IB Diploma. Studied in almost 3000 schools, 146 countries and recognised by universities across the world, the Diploma is widely seen as a symbol of academic integrity and intellectual rigour.

The appeal of the IB Diploma is based on the philosophy of the programme; foreign languages, international-mindedness and service learning are combined with a sustained focus on thinking skills, academic writing and subject specific rigour.

The school are looking for a number of teachers covering a variety of subject – but mainly Mathematics, Science, English, Drama and Spanish.

This school has held an outstanding rating and are looking to hold it for many years more.
