POST DETAILS

Title:

Lecturer in Montessori Education

Description:

St. Nicholas Montessori College is a QQI accredited Higher Education Institute specialising in education and related disciplines. This position is a full-time or substantial FTE part-time role in the College as a College Lecturer specialising in Montessori Education. The Lecturer will teach across a number of programmes including the College's flagship B.Ed. in Montessori Education programme. The Lecturer will also have the opportunity to make a significant contribution to the future development and direction of the College.

The role includes teaching, learning and assessment, school placement management (in pre-schools and primary schools), quality assurance and enhancement, programme development and research.

We are looking for a Montessori trained educator who has the enthusiasm and commitment to match our vision for the development of the College and the Society as a whole. Ideally you will have experience of higher education teaching and programme management, be a qualified Montessori school teacher and have a deep understanding of Montessori philosophy and methodologies, as they apply to the birth to 6 and 6 to 12 age group. You must have a minimum of a Level 9 (Master's) award in a relevant discipline and preferably a PhD or be working towards one. Experience of accreditation and working with QQI and/or teacher preparation programmes would be highly beneficial.

A full job description is available on request. Salary will be matched to experience and achievements.

As we approach our 50th anniversary, this post offers an unparalleled opportunity to help shape the next chapter in the history of St. Nicholas, our College and Schools. We are growing our primary schools and our undergraduate and postgraduate programmes; we are exploring secondary provision and applying Montessori philosophy to allied areas such as dementia care. Join us as we support the development of the next generations of independent, creative and critical learners.
