Additional Information:

Since the inception of The Academy in 2010 (formerly the Dublin School of Grinds), we knew that the success of the school would be built on the success of our students, and the great results they would need to achieve. And great results all start with one thing: great teaching. As such, it has always been our mission to ensure only the highest teaching standard is provided. By sticking to this mantra over the last decade, we've arrived at a point where we are the largest provider of part-time second-level courses in the country.
